Building Activity Takes Spurt With Arrival of Spring

After five months of comparatively little building activity in Janesville, a great spurt has been noticed the past 10 days, during which a total of 26 building permits have been issued for work aggregating a value of $25,000. Leaking Crank Case Drives Martin to Shelter of Alaskan Bay.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Kaniak, Portage Bay, Alaska—Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the United States around the world squadron and his lieutenant, Sgt. Alva Harvey, were recuperating here today while awaiting the arrival from Unalaska Island of a new engine for the flag plane Seattle, after a forced landing Tuesday at Cape Lax, 176 miles north-east of Chignik, Alaska, en route to the latter place from Seward.

As a result of the accident, the globe flight will be delayed about one week.

The other three cruisers, the Boston, Chicago and New Orleans, were anchored safely today at Chignik, following the arrival Tuesday under the temporary leadership of Lieut. Erik H. Nelson.

A crack in the crank case of the cruiser Seattle, causing a leakage of fuel, forced Major Martin to land at Cape Lax. He and Harvey spent the night in their plane. Word was sent by wireless and two United States destroyers, the Corry and Hull, retraced the route off Seward in search of the lost plane.

The destroyers arrived on the scene early yesterday and the Hull took Major Martin and his mechanical aide, together with the engine, and brought them to Kaniak.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Annapolis—Malt W. Knappstein, city treasurer for New London from 1920, was $10,000 short in his accounts when the treasurer's books were turned over to his successor, Mayor E. W. Wendlandt of New London, announced.

Knappstein now is endeavoring to raise money to make up the shortage. The exact deficiency, however, will not be known until an audit of his books is completed.

Mayor Wendlandt is alleged to have received a confession from Knappstein when the latter admitted he did not have all the money to turn over to his successor. Knappstein denied he used the money for stock speculation or for living expenses.

DO YOU WANT A GOLF COURSE FOR JANESVILLE?
No. 4
If a city were to adopt public golf, what benefit would it derive? Of course, there would be local people who would go out and play the game, but, come now, is there any other benefit? Can you name just one?

Honor of being the first woman to send in a blank boasting the fact that she had links at Riverside park goes to Mrs. Frank Trevarick, 427 South Main street. She and her husband sent in their blank together.

Mrs. Lillian Dulla, office manager of the Chamber of Commerce, was one of the first to fall in line with the plan. Before the series of articles started in the Gazette she expressed a hope that the links would become an actuality.

Miss Dulla has played many rounds on the Rockford public links.

Such is a query that comes up when municipal golf is talked of in any town. It is a fair one, too.

The sports editor of the Gazette has asked a number of public courses in the middle west to answer the question for him. Let's see what they say:

Let's take Oshkosh. That's pretty close to home. John C. Voss, councilman-park commissioner, replies:

"Your question has public golf been an advantage to the city and why? I will answer, yes. Tourists visit the city for the golf links, and the revenue received from this source, it also advertises our city all over the country where lovers of golf will find a first class golf course, and interests the tourist to go out of his way to come to Oshkosh to play the game."

Getting closer to home, listen to what Reine has to say. They state: "Our golf links are very attractive and bring us a great many visitors, even from Chicago. Many of our young people take advantage of the public links to get outdoor exercise."

St. Paul Bandits Get $35,000 Mail

COBBAN DISMISSAL DECLARED LEGAL, QUIZ ZIMMERMAN
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
St. Paul.—Thirty-five thousand dollars in currency was included in the loot obtained by three bandits who held up two postal employees in South St. Paul today, escaping with five pouches containing a large quantity of registered mail.

The robbery took place at the Chicago, Great Western station, just after a southbound train had unloaded the five mail pouches, one of which contained the $35,000 payroll for Armour and company's South St. Paul plant.

Just as the mail pouches were being loaded on to a postoffice truck, the bandits drew up in a large automobile, two sprang to the platform with drawn revolvers forcing Albert Manthey and Walter Van Hall, postal employees to surrender the mail bags.

While one of the bandits kept the two postal employees covered, the other threw the pouches into the automobile. Then both jumped into the machine, still trailing revolvers on Manthey and Van Hall, as they sped away, heading north toward St. Paul.

Chicago.—Armour and company employees at South St. Paul are paid by check and, although the banks send money in South St. Paul for checks, company officials here did not believe Armour and company had any loss in the mail robbery at South St. Paul today.

Neither the checks nor the money sent by the banks is ordinarily dispatched by mail, it was said at the company's offices.

The South St. Paul offices were asked by the St. Paul police to explain whether the stolen currency was bank or Armour funds.

Lightning Causes $75,000 Fire Loss
Barn, Silo and Warehouse of James Shwery Are Destroyed.

Lightning during the storm Wednesday night found its mark at the James Shwery farm, one and one-half miles from the city limits, on Tucker avenue, resulting in a $75,000 loss, with the destruction of a large new cattle barn, a tobacco shed and wooden silo. Insurance of $25,000 is carried on the property.

The lightning struck the tobacco shed about 8 p.m. and within a short time all three farm buildings were leveled. The ground, the city, illuminating the sky with vivid, for miles around and brought scores of automobiles to the scene. Chief Knaplund hurried to the fire but could do nothing.

Shwery barely escaped injury, emerging from the empty tobacco shed when lightning struck it. A small fire in the corner of the barn, enveloped in flames and Shwery had but a moment to rescue the nine head of cattle from the adjoining building before the roof of the big barn, 22x12 ft. fell through with a crash. The direction of the wind saved the house.

E. R. Brown, a neighbor, lost a farm machine, which he had left in the empty tobacco shed after using it in his fields but two days ago.

The main barn was built four years ago and valued at $25,000, with $2,000 insurance. The old shed was worth $1,000, and the silo, $600.

The farm was known as the Steve Fanning farm and was bought two years ago by Mr. Shwery.

He rented offices, bought furniture and hired a young woman secretary. He told her she must travel to Kalamazoo to get the sign company's order, and familiarized herself with the work.

DR. WELD RETIRES AS FORT MAYOR
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Washington.—Cutting at once to the heart of the whole controversy, the special senate committee investigating the Montana charges against Senator Wheeler opened its hearing today with testimony bearing directly on the extent of his activities in Washington in connection with cases in which his Montana clients were interested.

From Gordon Campbell, a geologist, who said he had employed the senator in 1922 to employ him in the state courts, the committee received copies of two sets of telegrams purporting to show that Wheeler had been advised by the government not to intervene in Campbell's behalf in land proceedings against him and the other, indicating that the senator had arranged for Campbell to confer with Solicitor Douth of the interior department regarding "the Lincoln permit."

Campbell, who was indicted with Wheeler in Montana, insisted this did not constitute Senator Wheeler's appearance "before the interior department" as charged in the indictment. On the advice of Solicitor Douth, the witness said, he had hired his own Washington attorney to handle land cases here. He insisted that Senator Wheeler had told him he could not handle such cases because of his election to the senate.

The committee plans to go into the proceedings of the Great Falls, Mont., grand jury, and the investigations leading to its indictment of Senator Wheeler, and to the extent of his money for prosecuting all these claims before the interior department, after his election to the senate but prior to his qualification for office.

FURIOUS THUNDER STORM HITS CITY
Wire Service Disrupted, Many Poles and Trees Broken; Bolts Strike.

Furious for three quarters of an hour, an electrical storm broke over Janesville and the close vicinity Wednesday evening, leaving in its wake a $75,000 fire loss, telephone poles and trees broken and a particularly disrupted telephone service. With the electric lights and power until bolts got striking matches, blowing out candles and striking matches again.

The storm opened with thunder and lightning. It closed the same way. The morning storm did no damage, though lightning glanced off a barn at Burlington.

Had it been a storm.

Proceeded by high, shrieking winds and a peculiarly warm atmosphere—an air that felt dead, the interior of a warm oven—the slides were not with piercing forks short by before 8 p. m. A deluge of rain, mingled with hail stones and size of peas, lasted for 15 minutes. Then came a heavy shower of sleet. Winds came in at periods later in the night and showers accompanied.

"The storm was more like an ocean squall."

A finger of lightning twice hit a building in front of the home of Frank Schuch, at the corner of Garfield and Sherman avenues, stripping it of its bark, appaling with a clap of thunder. When it struck, a string of fire leaped out, the candleholder in the home of Stephen Bolles, Walker street.

Trouble With Lights

Scattered wire trouble was experienced by the city's telephone company. Telephone poles were blown down in the neighborhood of Garfield and 12th, where lightning also snapped some wires. Some wire trouble was experienced on the toll lines to Madison.

Business and residential sections of the city again experienced an interval of trouble with the electricity shut off Wednesday night. Lightning hit the power lines very close to the main substation of the Janesville Electric company. There were several intervals between 6 and 9 p. m., when the city was plunged into darkness and the wires were made.

Use Auxiliary Plant

The burning out of the circuit breaker grounded both lines on the Washington building, and the temporary use of the auxiliary plant here. One line was put back into use at a later hour and the city was operating upon this Thursday pending repair of the circuit breaker on the additional line.

Cooler weather and raw winds ruled on Thursday with the forecast predicting fair and colder. It was 44 degrees at 8 a. m.; 44 at noon and 45 at 1.

INSPECTS LITTER IN STATE CONTEST

H. J. Brandt Visits Many Farms Having Entries in Ton-Litter Contest.

Inspection of several ton litters in Rock county were made this week by H. J. Brandt, extension specialist of the Wisconsin college of agriculture. The Rock county litter run fairly uniform in size since several of the largest litters were reduced by losses. Brandt visited the following farms: Walsh Bros., W. J. Proulx, Edith Harry Dabry, E. O. Sigurdson, Chester Manthei, Janesville. Others having nominated ton litters are as follows: Evans Bros., Janesville; E. J. Marquet, Milton Junction; Craig, Janesville; J. G. Davis and Charles Marquette, Janesville. It is expected that a number of best and grand in the Rock county pig club, in addition to Chester Manthei, who won the county championship and the club championship of Wisconsin last year, will nominate litters. Several members report litters of 11 thriving pigs, and the janitors are showing unusual skill in bringing the young pigs through the dangerous early period.

Special prizes are again being offered by the National Duroc-Jersey association—$50 to the heaviest litter in the state, provided it is sired by a registered Duroc and and $25 to each of the heaviest litter in the state, exclusive of the heaviest litter in the state contest, that win the county championships.

Gonzalez, Dubuque, Deloit, has a Duroc-Jersey that farrowed nine pigs.

Elvina Schwartz, Dubuque, Brodhead, writes that her Duroc has increased in weight from 50 when she secured it delivery day to 475 pounds April 4. The girl recently purchased a pig from Elvina, which has a pig club record and China that has farrowed seven pigs.

Violet E. Hildebrandson, Deloit, has a Duroc gift that has just farrowed eight pigs.

FARM MEETINGS

Saturday, April 13—Daley Calf Delivery day, Pavilion, Janesville.

Sunday, April 14—Green county Holstein sale, Monroe.

Monday, April 15—Semi-annual Rock County Holstein association sale, county pavilion, Janesville fair grounds.

Thursday, May 1—Holstein sale, Lake Mills.

Thursday, May 1—Meeting Jefferson county Farm Bureau, S. G. Potter farm, Rt. Atkinson.

Arrangements were made to allow the present tester to continue to work for the association.

The sentiment of the members present was in favor of having the board of directors arrange for a sale of high class C. T. A. cows following the National Dairy show at Milwaukee in October.

The annual report in book form will be omitted this year and be replaced by a statement to the members of the records made during the past year. J. C. Halsten, 704 Ames, St. Charles, and E. J. Hever, 1015 Lark and Clarence Becker were appointed to secure additional members, enough to permit the employment of a tester for the Fort C. T. A. We have 25 members at the present time, too many for one man to care for properly and not enough to justify the employment two men and at least 10 cows are secured and the cooperation of all the membership is desired.

The vote was unanimously in favor of another C. T. A. exhibit at the county fair, provided the necessary arrangements with regard to premiums can be made with the fair management.

It was also voted unanimously to continue the present arrangement of having a monthly entertainment committee. The entertainment committee for May will consist of Samuel Hagler, Nora Danker, Tillie Auerbach, and John Hever, and Bill Harg, with Otto Auer as chairman.

COMPLETE GRADING OF POOL TOBACCO

Janesville Warehouse Sorting About 10,000 Pounds a Day for Pool.

Pool tobacco in Rock county is all graded, according to information furnished at the warehouse here of the Northern Wisconsin Co-operative Tobacco pool. There may be some regrading when the producer is not satisfied with the grade granted. Good progress has been made in weighing up the crop.

About 10,000 pounds of the good tobacco produced in the Janesville district is being sorted daily by a force which varies between 40 and 50 sorters and those engaged in bulking and curing the crops. While some of the tobacco shows variation in color on the sorting table, generally the tobacco of the sorting grades shows decided improvement on coming out of the bulk.

Considerable stemming tobacco from this district has been sold in the bulk and interest in buying the lower grades increasing. Agents report demand for the higher grades. Non-descript No. 2, the lowest grade being sorted by the pool is priced at 13 cents. The stemming sample show heavy, long leaf tobacco but somewhat damaged by the disastrous freeze last fall.

Independent crops are being sold in many parts of the county and tobacco is being hauled in or shipped in daily from the surrounding districts.

Indications are that farmers growing tobacco in Wisconsin this year will strive more for quality than they have to any extent for several years. This is evident from inquiries for pure seeds. In comparison with last year, when seven out of ten inquiries were for seeds of the big types, it is reported that nine out of ten inquiries now are for Comstock Spanish and Connecticut Havana. No. 28. A complete sell-out of the No. 28 supply grown at the college of agriculture fields, was reported some weeks ago.

Drainage Future Involved in Suit

11,000,000 Acres of Swamp Lands Await Outcome of New Appeal.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Madison — Future drainage activities on approximately 11,000,000 acres of swamp lands in Wisconsin is involved in an appeal to the U. S. Supreme court in the Crawford County Drainage and Levee district case by E. W. Lucas, Madison attorney. Application for a writ of certiorari from the decision of the Wisconsin Supreme court is asked in the appeal.

Attorney Lucas, representing the drainage district, declares that the principal on which the state supreme court held the drainage district project invalid goes back to the swamp lands act of Congress of 1850, in which large areas of swamp lands were granted to the various states. As a result of the act, Wisconsin received approximately 11,000,000 acres, it is said. The lands were sold, one half of the proceeds going to the normal school fund and one half to the drainage funds.

The state supreme court in its recent ruling held that the state railroad commission was without authority to authorize organization of drainage districts under the circumstances because such would alter the navigability of the Mississippi river. A portion of the state drainage law also was held invalid.

Mr. Lucas claims that the drainage project would aid rather than hinder navigation on the river and asks that the supreme court take jurisdiction and reverse the order of the state court.

This is declared to be the test case of the swamp land question in Wisconsin. Such of the argument in the present case is based on the decision of the state supreme court in the Trempealeau river case, in which it is said the court held the drainage project valid when it would improve navigation facilities.

Edgerton School Expo Is Success

Good work in all lines is being exhibited at the Edgerton public school exposition held in the high school gymnasium this week. Several local teachers, members of the executive committee, and chairman of sub-committees of the local exposition to be held here May 1 and 2, motored there Wednesday afternoon to inspect the work.

Contrary to the plan to be followed here, the work is being displayed in the gymnasium, while here it is expected it will be according to subject. Each booth in the exposition is decorated differently. Of special interest is the exhibit of night school work, which is being displayed by local instructors. The exhibit system, in operation here for the past year, was introduced into the Edgerton schools Wednesday.

Plans for the last showing, which will be along similar lines, are progressing rapidly, and poster work, being done as a part of the regular work in the grade schools, will be distributed next week. The high school weekly, "The Blue," will print a special exposition issue.

Richards, with the aid of lantern slides, gave a talk on the treatment of the tooth, explaining the nerve blocking method of deadening pain; Dr. Woolf discussed the anesthetic treatment.

State Men Visit School for Blind

J. D. Morrissey, Madison, member of the state board of control, and J. E. Smith, state auditor, visited Supt. J. T. Hooper at the state school for the blind.

J. M. Householder, recently put in charge of all farming activities at state institutions, was here Wednesday and inspected the system in force at the state school for the blind.

Here a record is kept for the production of each crop and Mr. Householder plans to institute this plan in the other state institutions. Incidentally, it was stated that the Janesville institution has the finest dairy herd of any state institution.

No immediate change in supervision or policy is planned by Mr. Householder, who is making a survey of the state.

Additional Cash Reaches Y. W. C. A.

Some returns are now reaching the Y. W. C. A. from supporters who shipped to be out of the city, and it is hoped that the response from this source will aid materially in reaching the goal of $5,000. The amount subscribed to date is still several hundred dollars short of this sum. Mrs. Abbie Helms sent her usual contribution from California, with the following note: "I see by the Gazette that the yearly drive for funds for the Y. W. C. A. is on and I want to send my mite toward the cause as usual. I hear that the organization has had a most successful year."

Epidemic Delays Western Tourists

Alvah Maxfield and family, Janesville, who drove to the coast in a motor truck last fall, are being held up in California on account of a state wide quarantine ordered to prevent further spread of the food and mouth disease. They had planned to start home with the truck, Monday, but the state of Arizona declared a quarantine against tourists coming into their state from California on account of the disease, so they were obliged to remain, the northern route being closed. Mr. Maxfield has been appointed deputy state daily inspector to serve during the time the California quarantine is in effect. The quarantine is so strict that tourists are even forbidden the right to transport pets from county to county, Mr. Maxfield reports.

THAW QUESTIONED BRIEFLY ON STAND IN SANITY TRIAL

Liam A. Gray, representing Evelyn Nesbit, divorced wife of Thaw, whose 13 year old son has intervened in his own behalf, discussed the case with the attorneys supporting their side in the trial, which is being held at the end of five minutes, Mr. Dickson said.

Alibi in Called.

"What is your explanation of the Gump incident?" he asked, referring to the alleged kidnapping by Thaw of Fredrick Gump, Jr., Kansas City, in a New York hotel.

"I can't explain it," was the reply.

"Maybe the boy was his protegee and misbehaved?"

"I won't," Dr. Potts replied.

Mr. Dickson asked that assuming Thaw did commit the crimes which which he is charged, "might he not repeat them if released?"

"Yes, there is a possibility of his repeating them, but less likelihood, because of his more mature years and the discipline he has undergone," Dr. Potts said.

Counsel for Thaw hoped to have Thaw's mother present this afternoon when the opposition prepared to start its case.

Senate and President.

The denunciation of President Coolidge for his letter to the senate in which he called emphatic attention to the failure of that body to do business and criticized that legislative body for its interference with executive departments, was a mere gesture to save its somewhat battered face. Carter Glass, than whom there is no more generally unpopular man in the senate, was exceedingly bitter—for campaign purposes—but he arrived at no particular destination with his defense of the senate.

Secretary Hughes, in his address at the New York state convention of republicans, set out clearly the situation which he declared that "President Coolidge is his own platform."

Attacks on the president will not receive much satisfactory support from the country at large. Settling personal grudges and listening to tales and gossip of irresponsible persons, has arrived at a place where nothing definite is being disclosed. When Senator Couzens, to settle a personal grudge, offers to employ a muck-raking attorney with spectacular and sensational methods, merely for making political dope for the coming campaign, the president is bold enough to call a halt.

It jarred the senate as it was intended that it should. The professional defenders of the denunciations, those eminent mediocrities, and pompous exaggerated egos, have had their verbal pyrotechnics only to emphasize the truth of what the president said in his letter. The senate has made little progress since investigation has been its chief aim and end, and investigation has made slight progress since the main purpose of the investigators has been accomplished.

What manner of man is this Higgs, is told in another column of this day's Gazette. His hiring is an affront to decency. No citizen of the United States who has the welfare of his nation at heart will for a moment countenance the covering up of a schilling of crookedness. Out of every person's experiences comes the knowledge that scandal and gossip is retained at all times in every community and most of it has no foundation. It is not evidence when presented in court, in fact no lawyer would present it, but before a senate committee it has full swing.

The oil cases are in the hands of competent attorneys, appointed by President Coolidge. And while there has been rumors of testimony tending to show that H. M. Daugherty had many questionable friends, there has never been shown that he accepted a bribe or took a dollar for favors. There is a suspicion that he did, and those suspicions were sufficient to call for his resignation but the testimony presented would not convict any man in a police court. That is as far as investigations have arrived and no other kind of evidence appears to be added.

In the meantime the great senate of the greatest nation on earth has been swallowing his gossip with open mouth to the neglect of the nation's business. And that is what the president has said, "Get to business."

What Is Japan's Ambition?

It is hard to believe that the mere pride of Japan is at stake in the protest against exclusion and writing into the law of the United States what is already admitted to be law in fact, through the "gentlemen's agreement."

It would seem that Japan is fearful of our example on other nations where Japan has ambitions to become a factor with its heavy emigration. This is true of some of the South American states, notably Brazil and Peru. Our greatest problem in Hawaii is that of the Jap.

Japan is excluded from Australia, with its enormous reaches of unsettled territory, and nothing has been said by the Japanese regarding this as an unfairly act. Canada permits 150,000 a year to enter that great section of the north. New Zealand excludes the Japanese and the Japanese in turn exclude from settlement and colonization all races and peoples of all nations within her own boundaries. Property can be held only under the most carefully supervised methods and red tape by foreigners.

And until the senate passed the exclusion section of the Immigration bill, Japan was the only nation on earth which was permitted to regulate its own emigration to the United States.

Japan has placed herself in an attitude of childish antagonism which will increase rather than allay the suspicion that her motives are not always clearly honest in her dealings with the United States.

Mr. Cassius Whipple will attempt to again foreclose his mortgage on the sheriff's office.

With the delegates named by New York state republicans today, President Coolidge has more than enough to nominate him. In 1904 Roosevelt was nominated unanimously to succeed himself. History is about to repeat itself minus Wisconsin.

The nation has no more ardent supporters than the daughters of the American Revolution, and again this organization has shown itself to be

THE GREAT AMERICAN DESERT

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

Washington.—When reference is made to the dry region of the United States it usually is referred to the Eighteenth Amendment is under discussion, but this is not the case when the Geological Survey has the floor. The survey is not concerned with prohibition but is much concerned with the physical characteristics of the land under American dominion. Recently it has conducted a special report on the driest portion of the country—dry from every point of view—because most of the region even lacks water.

The Great American Desert, says the survey, may be roughly described as lying within a vast triangle. Its base is 800 miles long, lying along the southern border of California, Arizona, New Mexico and part of Texas, and the sides extending northward to Oregon. There is much land within this triangle which is not desert but nearly all the land within the triangle lacks water. It is found within these general boundaries. For years the Geological Survey has been making explorations of the great triangle. It has just concluded a report on what probably is the driest section—the region of the Salton Sea.

The Salton Sea district occupies about 10,000 square miles of southern California and, for the most part, is an arid desert as the famed Sahara itself. It is possible to travel an entire day, traversing an expanse as large as some of the eastern states, without hearing a sound and perhaps without seeing a living thing, unless it be an occasional insect or some reptilian creature. Enormous panoramas spread out before the desert traveler. Miles upon miles of drifting sand, baking in the blazing sunlight, give one either a sense of vast freedom or of oppression, depending upon his mood and temperament.

And, although the sun blazes, the air is bracing. The nights are positively cold. Nowhere in the world, says the survey, do the stars seem so bright as in the heavens above the desert. Occasionally, the desert traveler comes upon palm-tree oases which look as though they had been transplanted from Egypt or Arabia. Although within the confines of the vast and arid industrial nation of the world, the illusion is produced that one is in the land of the Arabian Nights Tales. All that is lacking is a vision of a caravan of camels, ridden by turbaned, dark-skinned riders.

And, sometimes, even these are to be seen, for the desert is used by motion picture companies as a location for scenes in eastern stories. The survey issues the warning that the tender-foot Easterner must not think that because this desert is a part of the United States, it has all the safety and all the modern conveniences of an American city. Quite the contrary. The American desert can hold as many terrors as the wildest swamps of the Sahara.

All may go well until, at the end of a day of travel, it is found that the water hole which was to mark the night's stopping place, has gone dry. Or, it may be, the automobile may break down half way to the oasis. Some other accident may intervene or, worst of all, the dim track may be lost and the traveler find himself wandering in a vast waste where it is useless to call for help.

Much events tend to make the wanderer forget the grandeur of his surroundings and he is willing to trade his view of a distant, snow-capped peak for a cup of water. It is understood by a man in such a predicament why such places as Death Valley were so named.

The utmost precautions must be observed, says the survey, to avoid these perils. The most experienced Westerners never go into the desert without observing the utmost care.

The survey has done much to reduce the dangers of the desert which is so vast that the works of man seem rather tiny in comparison. One of the principal efforts of the survey has been to search for hidden sources of water which may be tapped. The chances of producing new water supplies are carefully studied. Samples of water obtained are carefully analyzed. The probable permanence of water sources. By scientific study, the survey seeks to determine whether existing water holes may be depended upon.

One of the special fascinations about the Salton Sea basin is the fact that much of it lies below the level of the sea. The Great American Desert rambles over many kinds of country. It ascends into high places, covering vast plateaus, but in the Salton-Sea region it is low. Originally, the Salton Sea Basin was a part of the Gulf of Lower California and was not a desert but a great body of water. Some upheaval of the earth caused this body of water to separate from the main body of the gulf to the southward and it has dried out and become desert.

A curious fact about much desert land is that while it appears to be devoid of all possibility as a producer of vegetation, all that desert soil needs is water to make it highly productive. The famous Imperial Valley in California is ample proof of this. The Colorado river empties into the Gulf of Lower California, flowing through a section of the desert. A tremendous irrigation project has been completed there which has caused the Colorado's invigorating waters to many acres of the desert lands. The result has been the artificial creation of a garden spot. Vegetation grows luxuriantly and the crops produced in the Imperial Valley are famous.

The Colorado is a treacherous stream. In 1905 it broke through its barriers and swept the Salton Sea basin under a devastating flood. The government has been gradually improving the irrigation project however, and it is expected the river will not break away again.

The airplane is helping to remove the desert as a barrier to communication. In a few hours it is possible to go by plane to traverse the miles of waste land which would require days of arduous progress in a hand vehicle, even an automobile.

With the development of irrigation and reclamation, carried on by the federal government, it is conceivable that nearly all of the desert will be conquered ultimately, but that time is a long way off. The American will find in his own country all that he desires of desert environment, desert dangers, and desert life.

A force for good by the elation call issued from his meeting in Washington for law enforcement. "The great duty of the hour," said the president general, "is not to make law but to enforce it."

Consider the grape fruit, that acid yellow thing, once despised, with a tendency to squirt in the eye. It has taken the place of the morning's morning cocktail since the 18th amendment arrived. Twenty-three years ago Florida shipped about 25,000 crates to the northern users, but the past season will show $ million crates. Nothing in the history of fruits, not even the banana, which frequently is sold out, can touch this increase in consumption of the grape fruit and yet there are several millions of our own people who do not care for it at all.

Senator Redlin is afraid some one will take a shot at him. But it is against the law to shoot the buzzard.

Make Riverside Park everybody's playground. That will settle all the differences about play.

It has been discovered by the McAdoo supporters that Rabston is bald and it is against all precedent that a bald man should be president. The last one was John Quincy Adams, 129 years ago.

AT THE END.

When the swift hand race is run
And we face the setting sun,
When the last grim fight is won
And the goal is gained or lost,
Then I fancy we shall turn
Just to see and just to hear
What it was we fought to earn
And just what the struggle cost.

Then we'll chuckle at our pride
And the joys we thrust aside,
And the foolish things we tried
In our wish for worldly praise;
Or the fabled slight which stings,
Or the thrills which glory brings,
Then will seem such trivial things,
Near the closing of our days.

We shall count our gains and see
Many a friend who used to be
Who'd have loved us still had we
But could have lived as we did then;
We shall know the real worth
Of the gentler things of earth,
Of its beauty and its mirth,
And its fellowship with men.

Fligh of stream and bloom of tree
And the music of the sea
More important then will be
Than the shine of yellow gold;
We shall learn the things we sought,
And the goals for which we fought,
Were not really what we thought,
In the strong, brave days of old.

Then we'll chuckle at our pride,
And we'll thrust our fame aside,
And we'll find our memories tied
To a few fond friends and true;
Then we'll talk of beauties flown
And the laughter we have known,
And the lusty joys we own,
Just as old men always do.

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, APRIL 18, 1924.

Good influences from the stars are strong today, according to astrology. Venus, Neptune and Jupiter are all in benefic aspect.

All the affairs of women are subject to the best possible planetary direction. Whether they shop for hats or for clothes they ought to find that they obtain good values.

Even though it is Friday this should be an auspicious wedding day, making for prosperity and well-being in the future.

Those who wear or accept devotion while this configuration prevails should be fortunate in the future, for worldly success and the best sort of congeniality are indicated.

This is a favorable time for merchants and manufacturers, especially for those who deal in wearing apparel.

Neptune today gives promise that the truth will prevail and that misrepresentations of every sort will be easily uncovered.

The people should gain a better understanding of public issues than they have had while this direction of the stars has power to affect that mind.

Some one in far off India who has a hand on the pulse of the world and thus some sort of political crisis may be brought about, the seers forecast.

Venus in conjunction with Uranus in the horoscope of the Queen of England forebodes ill health and many worries over family affairs. Presumably those of her sons.

The Prince of Wales is again warned by astrologers that he will be subject to accidents and illnesses all through the summer, owing to the influence of Mars in close to the time of Mars in his horoscope.

Venus is in a place supposed to encourage the desire for pleasure and much money will be spent in seeking enjoyment during the coming months when there will be great mental unrest.

Persons whose birthday is in the month of January for the year. Money will increase. The young will have romances and will see life through rose-colored spectacles.

Children born on this day are likely to be fortunate in their undertakings, for they should be greatly endowed with talents and should have the energy to direct them wisely.

When eye strain causes headaches, cold far devices will not correct the vision.

BEST AND GROW FAT

Having elucidated, I hope, the value of certain exercises in the abstemious or building up of the frail and the gaunt, I now resume the traditional strategy of the profession and urge upon society folk the value of rest for growing fat.

It is instinctive, natural, physiological and healthful to nap or doze or sleep after a hearty meal. This is often questioned, but on wrong premises. It may be that overindulgence in food, particularly improper food, will disturb or prevent rest and sleep immediately afterward. That, however, is beside the question. It is natural and right to take a nap or go to sleep on a full stomach if you feel so inclined. If you are underweight and free to gain, you can do nothing better for that purpose than cultivate the habit of indulging in a daily after-dinner nap or snooze, no matter how well or how many hours you sleep at night, and no matter whether dinner for you comes at midday or later. The condition "free to gain" means that any physical defect or handicap which might offset the building measures has been remedied—and every underweight young person ought to undergo a careful general physical or health examination by a physician and find out just what such adverse factors.

Even when tuberculosis, a disease of youth, can be excluded as the explanation for underweight in a given case, and the individual is naturally must be considered among the common causes of malnutrition. In a majority of the cases of malnutrition in children an important factor is the habit of waking up late at night. No youth who must get up before eight o'clock in the morning can afford to get to bed later than 10:30 p. m. and, under such conditions, it is difficult to do with less than 8½ to 9 hours of sleep regularly. Many try, but at grave cost. A girl who wants to get or keep a good complexion had better get in a few hours of sleep before midnight as a complexion is worth.

If you are a late bedder and you want to gain, make it your habit to sleep away a substantial lunch just before bedtime. You can make yourself around a regular dinner, bread or crackers or cookies or cake and milk or a couple of sandwiches without condiments make a good lunch for bedtime. The milk should be pure fresh milk, certified if possible. The vitamins of milk are peculiarly favorable to gain in body weight.

For the individual who is underweight, the habit of drinking or tonic wine is of little value. The habit of drinking or tonic wine is of little value.

Can you inform me what per cent of our soldiers examined by the government during the World War were found to be underweight? I am a military surgeon? (H. J.)

Answer—From 70 to 80 per cent of the men from the following states were accepted: Montana, Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Virginia, North Carolina, Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida.

From 60 to 70 per cent of the men from the following states were found to be underweight: Idaho, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Tennessee, South Carolina, Georgia.

From 50 to 60 per cent of the men from the following states were found to be underweight: Washington, California, Arizona, Colorado, Michigan, New York, Delaware, and all the New England states.

From these war department data it seems that our best meat came from Montana and the middle west, where the west begins and the tall corn grows. Texas and Kansas, where prohibition was first enacted, where education is epidemic.

Can this program out. It will not appear again.

Q. Please settle an argument. A friend claims that the word "churchyard" is not used in this country and that in England they said "churchyard." Is this true? H. K. M.

A. Both the word cemetery and the word churchyard have been used for many centuries in this country. The word cemetery was originally applied to the cemeteries in Rome. It is found that it was used as early as 1537 in England. The word churchyard, on the other hand, appears in the old English Chronicles at about the year 1151.

Q. Could you look up for me the grades made in civil service examinations by a few applicants for positions in H.

A. Civil service grades are not made public and the only way to find the present grades of applicants is to inquire of the applicants.

Q. Why is Canal Street, New Orleans, so called? J. W. W.

A. Canal Street, New Orleans, derives its name from the canal which formerly traversed it. The waterway was intended to unite the Mississippi with Lake Pontchartrain. The canal had been partially filled in by 1878. The filling in of the canal created a neutral zone along the center of the street which is now used by the street car tracks.

Q. How soon should a lawn be moved in the spring? A. G. R.

A. It should be cut as soon as the grass has started to grow. It should then be given a dressing of acid phosphate, three pounds, and sulphate of ammonia, one pound, to each 40 square yards.

Q. Can a person cut a stamp from a stamped envelope and use it on another one? F. G.

A. The postoffice department says that a stamp which has been cut from a stamped envelope cannot be used on a blank one.

Q. When did we get the Philippines and what is the total population of the islands? A. I.

A. The Philippines were ceded to the United States by the treaty of Paris, 1898, following the Spanish-American war. There are 7,082 islands. The largest, Luzon, contains 10,511 square miles, and Mindanao, the second largest, contains 17,800 square miles. The population is estimated at 10,250,649.

DO YOU WANT A GOLF COURSE FOR JANSVILLE?

Hear what Edward O. G. Heald of Milwaukee has to report. He is brief: "Decidedly a benefit, because it gives outdoor recreation which is beneficial from physical and mental standpoint."

Nearly 100,000 are enthusiastic over public golf and has two links. Paul P. Reis, superintendent of the department of parks of the city, answers that as part of the playground system public golf has provided wholesome recreation to many. He adds, for emphasis: "Decidedly so."

Then there is Freeport. Dr. Lambert G. Stone was the first to reply to the Gazette's question, and here is what he wrote:

"You ask if your city will benefit from having a golf course for the public. It certainly will. There are no travelers who wish to stop in a town which has no public amusements and golf is the most important of all. Not only that, but it keeps your own citizens from hunting up some other city which has a public golf course. For in both these cases your city is out the money which is ordinarily spent by sports lovers, and there are no better spenders in the world, and as a rule no cleaner citizens. It benefits."

"Would miss a meal any time to play golf."

So writes A. J. Olson, city treasurer, in sending in his coupon favoring the establishment of a public golf links at Faversham park.

The coupons are starting to come in quite well. There is considerable discussion everywhere men and women of the city meet. Out at the Jansville Country club quite a few of the regular players—the early birds—have declared themselves as heartily in favor of such a move.

Dr. Irving A. Clark, past lecturer of Carroll county, knights of Columbus, put it in these words: "Great idea and should go over big. Anything I can do to help let me know."

Turning in his bank, Harold K. Green, 304 Sherman avenue, points to the success of public golf at Jacksonville, Ill., a city of 18,000, where the city built the links. He says there is a good companion with Jansville. E. E. Stedlerberg, superintendent of parks, writes:

"Public golf has been a decided asset to this city in my judgment because it provides a means of recreation for a large group who have not previously availed themselves of the other existing park and recreation facilities, and includes especially the women of the community. And because it provides this recreation at the expense of those who play the game."

And so we might go on.

DRY ENFORCEMENT GROWS—SACHTLEN

Improvement During 1923 Is Reported in Wisconsin by Commissioner.

Madison.—Improvement in prohibition enforcement activities during 1923 was reported today by Herman W. Sachtlein, state prohibition agent, in a report of the work of state agents during the year. The report shows that a total of 3,212 convictions were obtained for prohibition violations by state agents, $122,208 in fines paid by those convicted, and sentences amounting to 1,887 months given.

Convictions and fines during 1923 decreased as compared with those of 1922, largely because of the increased difficulty in obtaining convictions and the decrease in amateur liquor violators. Commissioner Sachtlein stated, he also stated that many appeals and decisions regarding the severance prohibition act have retarded prohibition to some extent.

The amateur bootlegger has practically disappeared in Wisconsin," Mr. Sachtlein declared. "It now is a question of the survival of the fittest. State agents must direct the professional violator. Actual bonded liquor has practically disappeared in the state also. The two main problems that confront enforcement officers are the commercialized traffic in illicit liquor, and the unlawful traffic in grain alcohol often with forged government labels, most of which is imported from other states."

County	Convictions	Fines	Months
Chippewa	46	$2,590	67
Douglas	29	12,500	55
Grant	29	2,500	55
Iron	23	5,620	6
Green	15	1,610	12
Kenosha	150	23,145	200
La Crosse	2	200	2
Marathon	70	15,050	223
Manitowish	41	4,620	24
Manitowish	21	8,450	19
Milwaukee	129	130,300	155
Racine	62	19,850	27
Walworth	19	10,150	12
Rock	58	11,300	117
Winnebago	80	20,550	52

Milwaukee county shows a decided drop in fines administered, a decrease of $58,600 for the year. Total convictions for the state in 1923 numbered 4,396 and fines $505,565.

NEW GAS MACHINE AT MERCY HOSPITAL

Installation of a machine for administration of oxygen-ethylene gas, conceded the most modern anesthetic, and its every day use as a substitute for ether or other agents, has been made at Mercy hospital. The new gas, produced from alcohol, is said to combine all of the good effects of nitrous oxide, or "laughing gas" commonly used by dentists, but retains sufficient power to permit its use in major operations.

One of the principal advantages of its instant effect on the patient. Complete anesthesia is produced in about one minute, whereas, by the use of ether, from 10 to 15 minutes is required. After effects, common with ether, are reduced to almost a nullity, and patients are usually conscious after five minutes. When ether is used, two hours at least is required, and the after effects often do not disappear for several days.

Only One in State The machine consists primarily of two large compression tanks, one containing oxygen and the other ethylene, and a bag in which the gases are mixed in proper proportions. It is portable. The mixture is administered by means of a mask. The machine is thought to be the only one in operation in this state.

While the machine is automatic, it requires delicate adjusting to individual patients, accomplished by the regulation of valves.

The device is usually started with a mixture of 75 percent gas and 25 percent oxygen and gradually increased to about 90 percent gas.
